

Peninsula Health Care District Welcomes Two New Directors

Burlingame, Calif., (June 15, 2021) –Peninsula Health Care District (PHCD) is pleased to have the good fortune to attract two new directors with a wealth of experience in public, private, non-profit, and civic arenas, and a passion for impactful community service.

“PHCD values leadership in every director and staff member on our team.” said Lawrence W. Cappel, Ph.D., Chair, PHCD Board of Directors. “Our two new directors’ experience and talent will expand the District’s capacity to address the community’s most significant health challenges as we recover from the pandemic.”

Eddie Flores has accepted the new position of Director of Youth Behavioral Health. Director Flores will be responsible for developing, launching, and administering the District’s new allcove Youth Drop-In Center, managing related programs and external partnerships, and serving as a liaison to the countywide network of providers and agencies addressing behavioral health & wellness for this population.

Ann Wasson has accepted the recently vacated position of Director of Community Engagement. This critical PHCD position is responsible for managing the District’s $3.4M Community Health Investment budget which includes special funding initiatives, the community grants program, new program development, community health education, and community outreach activities. Director Wasson will also play a major role in the implementation, monitoring and updating of the District’s strategic plan.
